INTRODUCTION

The GMDS (German Military Documents Section) collection has served ever increasing demands of various agencies. The huge mass of its material has presented a serious problem of control which cannot easily be solved. Its different parts are in varying stages of accessibility and completion, ranging all the way from undescribed deposits to quite well described and amply utilized holdings.

The GMDS collection is a part of the DRB (Departmental Records Branch), Administrative Services Division, AGO, Department of the Army, and is located in the FRC (Federal Records Center) at King and Union Streets, Alexandria, Virginia. It contains primarily documents of the German Armed Forces of the years 1930 to the end of World War II. There are, however, other documents not in this category.

Breakdown of GMDS collection: Total linear feet: 28,000

Total linear feet under control	Arranged	Indexed	To be arranged	To be indexed	Not to be arranged or indexed
20,332	14,324	4,810	4,597	9,163	6,359

The total amount of German military documents in the GMDS collection covers roughly 28,000 linear feet. About two-thirds of the total collection (20,332 linear feet) is now under some sort of control. A priority category of GMDS records has been devised which consists of 17 different groups of records and comprises a little over one-half of the entire collection (about 15,400 linear feet). About one-third of this priority category (5,800 linear feet), however, will not be described by the DRB staff. The priority category consists of those parts of the collection which the DRB staff, from experience, has found to be most conspicuously valuable and most in demand by official research agencies. The staff's growing acquaintance with the records and the pattern of the inquiries directed toward the collection by researchers have thus contributed toward designing the priority category. By taking care of the priority category, a good control of about one-third of the entire collection (9,600 linear feet) would be established.

CONFIDENTIAL

This Research Aid describes the collection as a whole and its accessibility. The DRB staff, responsible for maintaining and indexing the collection, is continually improving control over the collection. The information found in this report may be considered valid as of April 1953; allowances must be made for the changes since that date.

The report is divided into four chapters and an index (cf. Table of Contents). The Index contains: a) listings of GMDS record groups (German titles only) in alphabetical and numerical order, and b) listings of key intelligence items, in alphabetical order, emphasizing the U.S.S.R. and satellites. These references to key intelligence items make no pretense at being comprehensive and should be taken only as representative of much additional information contained in the GMDS collection.

This report has been prepared by the CIA Library with the assistance of ORR, FDD and DRB. The CIA Library will welcome any suggestions or additions by the users of this publication for incorporation into a future edition.

CHAPTER I

AN ANNOTATED LIST OF THE FINDING AIDS TO THE GMDS COLLECTION

A. Aids found in the CIA Library reference collection.

The arrangement of the items described here is as follows:

(1) the first Aid is the best introduction to the holdings of the collection; (2) Aids 28 and 29 represent card catalogs located in the CIA Library. All these aids are in the reference collection of the CIA Library. Other guides, indexes, catalogs, accessions lists etc. are known to exist; as acquired they will be placed in the reference collection. Some of them are listed under section "B" (cf. page 15).

The first part covers the records of the German Military Documents Section, Departmental Records Branch, The Adjutant General's Office which is the principal depository of German records of the Department of the Army for the retirement of captured German records held by field elements of the Department of the Army, Zone of the Interior. Besides listing 27 record groups* there is contained on pages 2-3 a List of GMDS Studies and Papers. The second part describes the captured records in custody of other Department of the Army agencies in the United States. A separate entry has been prepared for each depository, or record group, of German records. Each entry usually has a prefatory note on the functions of the depository; a description of the German records, with their

* A "record group" (RG) is a major archival unit that usually consists of the records of (1) a single bureau or other major subdivision in an executive department (2) an independent agency, or, (3) several related small agencies. For example: Records of the Headquarters of the Armed Forces High Command (Oberkommando der Wehrmacht) for 1934-45 are deposited under Record Group No. 1026 (cf. page 52).

29. U.S. THE ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE. GERMAN MILITARY DOCUMENTS SECTION. Intelligence catalog. CONFIDENTIAL.

"In the summer of 1946 a systematic survey of the documents in GMDS containing information of intelligence interest was begun by G-2 Army. The responsibility for continuing this survey was transferred to the Foreign Documents Division, CIA, in June 1947. The product of the survey was the Intelligence Catalog (IC) which consists of cards containing abstracts of documents having information considered to be of intelligence interest. When the survey was completed over 10,000 individual IC cards has been produced.

"For the most part, the IC cards contain reference to the USSR and its European satellite countries; however, the catalog does have many entries pertaining to other countries. The Intelligence Catalog covers a wide range of subjects as will be seen from an examination of the Subject Headings Page 16-19 below. Two sets of this catalog, arranged by area and subject, are available for reference, one at GMDS and the other in the CIA Library."

Description of GMDS catalog extracted from Aid 23.

The Intelligence Catalog at the CIA Library has been expanded along the cross-index lines in accordance with which it was set up (for a breakdown of the IC cf. CHAPTER I, "C", pages 16-19). It is generally recognized that the IC covers only a minor part of the entire collection, but the material contained in it derives significance from the fact that it was selected material at the time when the IC was undertaken. The copy of this catalog deposited at the DRB has not thus been expanded, for DRB has abandoned cross-indexing and is instead producing as many different cards for different documents as time permits. The attempt is being made to represent an ever increasing body of material by one card per document kept together in card indexes representing the established record groups at the DRB. At a later stage the reference to a particular document can be spread by means of further cross-indexing. Such cross-indexes as do exist at the DRB, are being incorporated with the more descriptive card indexes currently under construction.

5. HITLER MINUTES. The Hitler minutes were originally a part of Record Group 1048 (cf. ibid, pages 61-63.) Total linear feet: 6 (arranged and indexed).

Comment: From September 1942 to 22 April 1945, Hitler held daily conferences with his High Command on the military situation. A stenographic service was set up, on his order, at his headquarters. Eight stenographers were sworn in by Hitler himself. They were to take down the daily conferences in shorthand. In addition to the stenographers, two male and seven female typists were employed. One transcription was sent to Brigadier General Scherff (official historian of the High Command), one to the files of the Reich Chancellory in Berlin, and one was retained in Hitler's own files. The original stenographic notes were kept in the Reich Chancellory.

In April 1945, Hitler ordered his stenographers to Berchtesgaden with the original notes and the transcription copy from the Reich Chancellory files. An SS detachment brought these papers, early in May, to the woods near Hintersee, about five miles southwest of Berchtesgaden. They were hastily burnt in an open hole some twenty feet in diameter and three feet deep.

Some of the papers were not completely destroyed and were later salvaged by the 101st Airborne Division. The charred remains which were recovered from the pit beyond Berchtesgaden represent all that has survived of over 200,000 pages. These are the remains of 51 conferences, some complete or practically complete, some consisting merely of a few charred pieces of paper. The set of minutes of the conferences left in Berlin, in the German Army Archives, may be presumed to have been completely destroyed. The third set, which was in the custody of Brigadier General Scherff, was completely burnt.

After World War II had ended, the stenographers were detained in Berchtesgaden and set to work reconstructing the charred remains. In the estimation of the stenographers, only one percent of the files was saved from the fire. Wherever possible, the stenographers attempted to fill in the gaps either from memory or by comparing their two different versions. Neither of the two stenographers was allowed to correct his notes; discrepancies between the two versions were frequent.

Since Hitler had previously placed Dr. Peschel in charge of making the original record, he continued as head of the group. The stenographers reconstructed the records in longhand, and then six typewritten transcripts of the reconstructed minutes were prepared.

After the work had been completed, the original charred remains and four copies were turned over to a Document Team which, in turn, sent them to Wiesbaden for use in the Nuremberg trials. One copy was sent to the G-2 Section of the 101st Airborne Division. The fifth copy was retained as an appendix to interrogation reports conducted at Berchtesgaden. The sixth copy, along with the rest of the Berchtesgaden papers, was sent to the Library of the University of Pennsylvania. Extracts of the copy were translated into English and later published in: Felix Gilbert, ed. Hitler Directs His War; The Secret Record of His Daily Military Conferences, Selected and Annotated by Felix Gilbert. New York, Oxford University Press, 1950. 187p. 4M/6 170.H6.

GMDS has in its custody the original and two copies of the reconstructed transcripts as well as some of the twenty mimeographed copies of the transcripts in German.

Reference: Aid 1, page 18;
Aid 14, pages 10-12;
Aid 17, report No. 12;
Aid 25, page 27.

Description: Report No. 12 of Aid 17 states the following:
"The collection is misnamed inasmuch as these are not the records of the Ministry indicated, but rather of an administrative agency, the Wirtschaftsstab Ost, and its less important counterpart in the field of arms production, the Wehrwirtschafts-Rüstungsamt".

DRB subject cards which have been made for this record group are set up in geographic order and consist of the following three sections:

- a) Hq of the Armed Forces High Command(OKW) Economic Office (Wehrwirtschaft);
- b) Eastern Economic Staff (Wirtschaftsstab Ost);
- c) Non-European Economic Staff (Wirtschaftsstab Ausland).

The numerical breakdown of the cards is as follows:

Wi/I - Europe; Wi/IA - Western Europe; Wi/IB - South-western Europe; Wi/IC - Southeastern Europe;
Wi/ID - Eastern Europe; Wi/IE - Northern Europe;
Wi/IF - Central Europe; Wi/IG - European waterways.

Wi/IIA - Asia, Near East; Wi/IIB - Far East;
Wi/IIC - Pacific.

Wi/III - Africa; Wi/IIIA - Northern Africa; Wi/IIIB -
Western Africa; Wi/IIIC - Eastern Africa;
Wi/IIID - Central Africa; Wi/IIIE - Southern Africa.

Wi/IV - North and South America; etc.

In addition to the subject card file, there is a cross index file which is to be incorporated into the subject card file. While the subject cards describe the documents in some detail (generally using a few sentences), the information contained on the cross index cards is extremely scanty.

Comment: Wi/ID - Eastern Europe falls into the following sections: Poland, Russia, Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia.

The following is a sample subject card of the Russian section:

EUROPE East	Wi/ID.157
Org.: A Wi/Fue/Pz AOK 4 (Army Economy Command with the Panzer Army High Command 4)

1. RECORD GROUP 1007. (Continued)

In a)1) and 3) a physical check of the document was suggested. It was this physical check which revealed that the document contains two pages listing 37 grain mills in Oblasti Podolia and Wolhynia, as of 9. 2. 44. The following information was contained: names and/or location of mills, type, daily output in tons, and area.

As was established by the physical check, the document further contained tables on grain, vegetables, oil seeds, dairies, cattle, alcohol, etc. in Podolia, as of 31 Dec. 44, indicating daily or annual capacities wherever it applied.

It is to be noted that the subject card is not specific enough to reveal that the material in this document concerns Wolhynian grain mills or the Podolian cattle capacity. These specific data were dependent on a physical check of the document itself.

Another sample subject card of the Russian section:

Europe East	W1/ID. 170

Title:	Abwicklung einzelner Betriebe und sonstige Einzelangelegenheiten (Liquidation of individual factories and other individual matters) dated 1943/44 (typew.), 1 1/4 inch.

Document contains: a) Correspondence concerning:
1) Liquidation of individual factories, property, trust-companies, etc.; 2) Payment of power and water accounts by the Army in the occupied Eastern Territories; 3) Cost of the occupation in Kiev; 4) Flour mills, cereal producing and grain elevators throughout the S. Union.

4) suggested a physical check of this document. This check revealed that the document contains 8 large photostated pages in English of Bulletin 642 of the Trade Information Service of the American-Russian Chamber of Commerce, 261 Fifth Avenue, New York, which is, allegedly, a complete directory of the flour mill, cereal producing and grain elevators throughout the Soviet Union, dated 1939.

RWM/108: 1941

Petroleum in Russia (2 copies)

For the first five items, IC cards were also made.

The cataloged material includes a number of printed pamphlets
(cf. RWM 46, 72, 108 and the following)

RWM 108, in order to be adequate, should have had a listing parallel to RWM 72, namely:

Reichsstelle für Bodenforschung, Die wichtigsten Lagerstätten
der Erde, Erdöl in Russland (Crude oil in Russia), Berlin, 1941, 56 pp, issue 4.

Thus, RWM 108 would clearly be related to RWM 72 and continue the list of about 30 pamphlets stored in this Record Group.
The pamphlets are assigned the following numbers: RWM 43 to 72, 108 to 110.

2. RECORD GROUP 1004. (Continued)

RWM 108 lists further pamphlets which have appeared in the same series and of which the following are also found in this Record Group:

Die Bodenschätze des europäischen Russlands (ohne Erdöl)
(The mineral resources of European Russia (except crude oil), issue 3.

Die Bodenschätze des indisch-Malaiischen Raumes (The mineral resources of India and Malaya), issue 7.

NOTE on the (about 30) pamphlets: In addition to RWM 46, 72, and 108, the record group contains the following:

H. Wolfgang Schmidt, Die Grenzsichten Silur-Devon in Thüringen, mit besonderer Berücksichtigung des Downtown-Problems (The Silur-Devon boundary layers in Thuringia, with special emphasis on the downtown problem), Berlin 1939, Preussische Geologische Landesanstalt, New Series, issue 195.

W. Bornhardt, Die Entstehung des Rammelsberger Erzvorkommens (The genesis of the Rammelsberg Ore deposits [Ore deposits in the Goslar/Harz area]), Berlin 1939, Archiv für Lagerstättenforschung, issue 68.

Franz Penningsfeld, Zur Kenntnis der Böden Albaniens (Soil research in Albania). Berlin 1942, Reichsamt für Bodenforschung, New Series, issue 205.

Schmidt, Bornhardt and Penningsfeld are three random examples of the three pamphlet series contained in this Record Group.

The pamphlets also include: Jahrbuch der Preussischen Geologischen Landesanstalt (Annual publication of the Prussian Central Office of Geology) for 1938, Berlin 1939 (RWM 68a - 68b) and Jahrbuch der Reichsstelle für Bodenforschung (Annual publication of the National Office of Soil Research) for 1939, Berlin 1939 (RWM 69 - 70).

2. RECORD GROUP 1004. (Continued).

The following is a sample card of this record group:

1939 Typed 1/2 inch.	RWM 101
Semi-annual report on the raw materials from the south east for Germany, etc.

A physical check was made. The following typewritten notation is attached to the document itself: "Semi-monthly report of the Wissenschaftliche Beratungsstelle in Planungsamt. Aug. 1944: Mimeographed pamphlet entitled 'Deutsche Rohstoffversorgung aus dem Südostraum' From the Reichsamt für wehrwirtschaftliche Planung, Mar. 1939; Mimeographed pamphlet 'Die rohstoffwirtschaftliche Bedeutung des Südostraums für die deutsche Wehrwirtschaft' From Reichsamt für wehrwirtschaftliche Planung. Mar. 1939".

Semicolons indicate that three documents are contained in this folder. A physical check was made of Document 2 and 3. Document 2 is entitled: Deutsche Rohstoffversorgung aus dem Südostraum Reichsamt für wehrwirtschaftliche Planung. März 1939, 26 pp." (It is a mimeographed pamphlet).

The tables of which this Document 2 consists contain material which is copied (extracted) from the more comprehensive document 3. There are tables on iron and steel, copper, lead, zinc, nickel, chromium, antimony, bauxite, sulfur, mineral oil, other oils and various agricultural products (e.g. rye, wheat, corn, butter, eggs). These tables list: amounts of German 1937 consumption, German 1937 production, deficits, excess production of commodities listed in Greece, Yugoslavia, Turkey, Bulgaria, Hungary, Rumania, Czechoslovakia, amounts of this excess production sent to Germany in 1938 by these south eastern countries, and the remaining German deficits. In addition to the material also found in Document 3, Document 2 also lists comparative figures of increased demands for each of the commodities treated in the eventuality of an anticipated mobilization program (Mob-demand figures).

Document 3 is entitled: Die rohstoffwirtschaftliche Bedeutung des Südostraums fuer die deutsche Wehrwirtschaft Reichsamt fuer wehrwirtschaftliche Planung. März 1939. pp. 83 (a much more comprehensive mimeographed pamphlet than its extract, document 2). This is a detailed study of the production of south eastern countries with many tables, treating the commodities found in document 2 as well as many additional ones (e.g. coal, electric current, cellulose, textiles, cattle, etc.), arriving at definite conclusions about the degree to which various supplies from the southeast would fulfill German demands. We find in this report, as might be expected, lists and evaluations of the southeastern countries' production and consumption figures of the various metals, chemicals, textiles, agricultural products, etc. for 1937 and comparative production figures (1935 to 1937) of some of the commodities.
